

Introductory Biography

Dr. Denis Bourke is a coach, facilitator, program designer, speaker and author in the area of management and leadership. He has more than twenty years of applied business experience in both the public and private sector, and for much of that time he has held senior manager and executive positions.

Working and consulting predominantly in Australia, Denis also has experience in the United States, United Kingdom, and the Asia Pacific region and has worked in, and with, a variety of industries and disciplines, including: professional services; financial services; manufacturing; energy and the environment; education; government; and academia. He is also a Fellow of the Australian Institute of Management.

As a result of his work with the Blackwood Annexe, a secondary school for young children at risk, Denis' company, the Centre for Executive Development, was named national winner of the Prime Minister's award for excellence in community and small business partnerships.

Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome Denis Bourke.